

Newsletter: year open 2023

Dear Colleague

We hope you are all well and the year 2023 has started well for you. Depending on where you're teaching, of course, the term will have had a very different flavour so far, but wherever you are, I'm sure it's been a busy start to the year! If you're getting your learners exam-ready for the next IB DP exam session, then I hope you can find all the resources you need to help your learners achieve their best.

Don't forget we have many downloads freely available on our website. One which is proving popular now is our 'Show-off' phrases for Spanish B. (See right ➤ and Click here to download your own copy.)

~ Stay well!

Toronto – here we come!

Come say hello!

We're delighted to tell you that we shall be at the next IBO Global Conference to be held this July in Toronto. It will be a great opportunity for us to meet more teachers face-to-face from the Americas and present our new titles!

We're now on LinkedIn!

Although LinkedIn is the oldest social media platform (first launched in 2003), we're new to it! It started as a job seekers' platform, but is now growing into a learning hub with content and information being shared freely. A change we have to applaud, of course!

Join us. We'd love to see you there!

Is silence golden?

Well, that's not the whole story! For us, speech is most definitely silver. You see as a small independent publisher, we know how much word of mouth counts. We know that teachers, on the whole, listen to the views of their peers to understand how well a resource works (or doesn't) in the classroom. That's why we'd really value you telling others about our books. You can:

- * Rate us on online sellers (if you bought there)
- * Like our social media posts
- * Prepare a book review for us (- we'll give you full guidance, and you get to keep your free copy)
- * And of course, most importantly - tell all your colleagues why you like our books!

World Languages teacher in the UK? Head to Language World 2023 in Sheffield on 17-18th March to hear one of our authors, Danièle Bourdais, speak about Francophonie. A great opportunity to hear from the best!
